What is an Allergy?

Allergies are nothing more than inappropriate responses to something harmless. Allergies are an error in the immune system. Your body sees an ordinary substance as foreign and reacts to it, sending you into an allergic reaction involving any body system, organ or tissue. According to the Mayo Clinic, your immune system makes antibodies that identify your particular allergen as something harmful, even though it isn't. When you come into contact with the allergen, your immune system's reaction inflames your skin, sinuses, airways or digestive system. What's worse is now a new association is turned into an ingrained pathway in your nervous system which will associate that substance as a foreign object from there on out. It is a substance/association error that is made and learned by your nervous system.

Is there a Connection between Improper Digestion, your Immune System and Allergies?

In most cases yes! Allergies are considered to be an immune system error. Eighty percent of your immune system is related to your digestive system.

IMPROPER DIGESTION=WEAKENED IMMUNE RESPONSE=INCREASED ALLERGIC RESPONSE
Digestive problems are often the underlying factor that leads to the development of delayed allergies and respiratory distress. Many children and adults have excessively 'leaky' digestive tracts, which means that partially undigested proteins enter the bloodstream and cause the body to react. So, identifying and ASA Balancing what your child is reacting to is one half of the equation. The other half is improving the health of their digestion through the removal of infectious agents, heavy metals/halogens while replacing specific enzymes and probiotics to aid digestion and restore proper bowel flora to optimize colon function.
